Travel the World at the Indianapolis Zoo Preview Night Features Tales of Faraway Places

INDIANAPOLIS — Each year, the Indianapolis Zoo offers several specially designed trips guided by experts from the Zoo to exotic locales around the globe. Each January, the Zoo hosts a Preview Night for the public to introduce material about the latest upcoming excursions. This year's Preview Night is January 26 at 6pm, in the Hulman Riverhouse at White River Gardens.

Master tour operator, Stacy Fiorentinos, president of Classic Escapes travel company, will walk attendees through a virtual look at the wilds of Tanzania, Uganda, Rwanda, Ecuador and the Galapagos Islands – all destinations of Zoo trips in 2010 and 2011. Her special presentation includes a step-by-step description of the trips, wonderful photos, personal experiences, and the latest tips for becoming eco-travelers in today's green travel environment.

Topics to be covered include the annual migration of the Serengeti, Ngorongoro Crater and the origins of prehistoric man, the snow-capped peaks of Mt. Kilimanjaro, close encounters with mountain gorillas, chocolate farms, and the ecological wonder of the Galapagos, among many other fascinating stories.

This event is FREE to the public, but attendees should RSVP to Donna Lindley, (317) 630-2014 or dlindley@indyzoo.com.
